Are your files truly 'Ready-to-print'?

Good quality output starts with a quality image or artwork. While you may capture great photographs and proficient with image processing or editing software, if one do not worked them on a color-managed platform, the output may still be compromised.

Purchasing a small print for test is always recommended, especially for first-timers or if you are ordering large prints.

Tips for preparing your "Ready-To-Print" files

	JUST PRINT	TRADE PRINT
Download our media/paper's printer or ICC profile.	Optional	✓
Convert your embedded RGB profile image to our customize ICC profile. Convert to a profile specific to the media you want to print on.	Optional	✓
View image on a color-calibrated monitor to ensure the results is what you want. Check your calibrated monitor to a reference output by a color-managed lab to verify your calibration is in order.	✓	✓
Perform a final edit to obtained the desired result.	✓	✓
Flatten all working layers and remove alpha channels.	✓	✓
Convert image to 8-bit depth mode.	✓	✓
Set or crop your 'Image/Document' dimension, i.e. width and height to your desired output size, at maximum 300 p.p.i. Average acceptable or satisfactory quality can be as low as 150 p.p.i. of original file, assuming image is originally sharp.	✓	✓
Apply a final sharpening at desired output size for better quality control.	✓	✓
Save image as a JPEG with maximum, '12', quality and output icc profile embedded.	✓	✓
File name has a maximum of 25 characters. [Qty_Name_Size] Multiple copies indicated in the file name e.g. 2x_Andy_8x12.jpg	✓	✓
Files are placed accordingly in separate folders indicating the different size grouping. OR Print orders <10 files may indicate size on the file name e.g. 2x_Andy_16R.jpg	✓	✓
Folders are placed into one single folder indicating your name. For large print files exceeding 350mb per image, kindly split into folder batches not exceeding 1GB per folder,	✓	✓
